

PERMISSIVE ACCESS

These permissive footpaths and bridleways link with existing Public Rights of Way across the Upton Estate to provide a network of circular routes. Alongside the traditional mixed farming system, wildflower margins, thick hedgerows and patches of wild bird seed mix offer refuge for farmland wildlife. The area has significant historic interest, being the site of the Battle of Edgehill in 1642. Features such as the Battlefield are managed by the Estate as undisturbed grassland to protect the underlying archaeology.

This access has been provided under the Department for Environment, Food & Rural Affairs' farm conservation schemes as managed by Natural England, which help farmers and land managers protect and improve the countryside, its wildlife and history. It is permissive access and no new rights of way are being created. Existing rights of way are not affected. Please follow the Countryside Code and observe any other requirements shown above. Do not disturb wildlife, livestock or other visitors and in particular keep dogs under control. This is working farmland so please take care; people using this site do so at their own risk. Access ends on 31st July 2016.
